The main problem with the airport in Imaginesims Barbados was the handling. Whilst driving in the taxi-stand area. There was no damage model so all the cars were simply have a small scratch on their underbodies and tyre treads. I could understand that the cars in the flight-range and terminal area would have damage models like their counterparts at Dubois Airports, but the taxi-stand roads looked like they had a slight collision model and could just look a little damaged. I wondered if perhaps they should have a collision model like the other areas to add to realism. Another problem was that even though the seats looked comfortable and soft there was no seating animations. This meant that even though the cab-stands were quite well detailed you had no idea if the driver was on the phone or even awake. If they were on the phone then you had no idea if it was connected or not. On one occasion I ended up getting into an airport taxi after going for a walk and when I got back I was told that the driver was waiting. I had no idea where in the airport this taxi was or if it was driving as I approached. I thought this was a great idea and would be very realistic. But in practice the driver did not return. The new airport began operation in 1984. Subsequently, due to the success of new capital city airport, the government invested more into the upgraded island infrastructure, with funding from the European Commission Programme for the operational support of development. The new facility has two parallel taxiways for aircraft to taxi directly to the perimeter, was extended and includes a Category I Hardstand. The new airport is also connected to the adjacent military airfield, Camp Dawson, and had a runway extension along with new facilities. The Airbus 320-family of aircraft has been used on scheduled and charter services in the past, but the airport is presently the base of West Indies Executive Air, the charter carrier and training school. 5ec8ef588b
