The Last Witch Hunter (English), ita was added to our blog with HD streaming at 28 August, 2013Q: SQL Query on a relational table with more that one join I need a (linq) query that makes joins based on their ID. I have a relational table like this: tblFiles(f_id, f_name, ft_type, ft_size) I have another table called tblCustFolders that stores the IDs of the files that are stored in that folder: tblCustFolders(fc_id, fc_name) And a last table that stores the files belonging to that folder: tblFilesInFolder(if_fid, f_id) So, if I want to get the file name and size of all the files that are stored in the folders of a specific customer I want to do the following: SELECT f_name, f_size, ft_name FROM tblFiles f INNER JOIN tblFilesInFolder fic ON f.f_id = fic.f_id INNER JOIN tblCustFolders fcf ON fic.fc_id = fcf.fc_id WHERE fcf.fc_id = @CustID But how can I do this using linq? A: You can use the Where() method of the query : var custFolders = db.tblCustFolders .Where(p=>p.fc_id==someCustid)
